Update On Humanity

Zoosh through Robert Shapiro

November 13, 1994

Now I'm glad you are here tonight because there are many things you can do to alter the future into at least a somewhat more beneficial form. But you must begin now.

There are many factions stridently competing for this planet and these times. Some people would like these times to become a replay of previous times, almost like a game: "Lost the last one, let's win this one." But you know, that is a never-ending cycle. Until you learn how to play the same game all the time on the same team and enjoy the variety and spice of it, you will be perpetually replaying the game, one time being on the "winning side," the other time being on the "losing side."

So the great challenge for you now is to not choose sides. That's hard, but whoever told you that material mastery and spiritual mastery would be easy? It is not easy; that's why you're here. You've done all the easy stuff — oh yes, you've done that. That's how you're qualified to be here, to get past the easy stuff. But now that you are here, you're coming into the time of true testing. Oh, many of you have been tested in your lives. But this is different, this is a test in which you must all participate and be in some form of agreement in order for it to work benevolently. Interestingly enough, you do not have to be in any agreement whatsoever for it to work destructively. So you can enjoy your differences; that's all right. You don't all have to agree, no. You can disagree, that's fine. But to the extent that you harbor violent feelings that are expressed destructively to yourself or others, it just delays the process forward.

You see, no one, no spirits, have ever accomplished what you are trying to do. So it's not as if you can fall back on your experience. Nor is it as if teachers can come here from afar and say, Do it like this, or this, or this. I can't tell you how to do it. I can make suggestions, I can coach from the sidelines. I can cheer you on, I can encourage you. But I can't tell you how to do it because it's never been done before. No one, no group of spirits ensouled in bodies, has ever been exposed to such extremes, such polarity and been able to come together completely, and consciously move through the veils to a higher dimensional experience.

The Third Reich's Attempts to Create a Negative Future

You do this all the time. When people are born they move through the veils; when they die, as you call it, they move through the veils. And yet to do so while you are physically alive, that's quite something! That's why you have attracted so much attention, and there are those who would like you to not move through that veil. Putting it in their terms, they would like you to move into the dark times. Dark in this sense does not mean color. Rather, it means the time of absolute control in which "we" (whoever is saying that, you see) "will win." You know, years ago — and some of you in this room are old enough to remember, having lived through that — there was a man and his followers who wanted to create a thousand-year reich that would have been a dark time for most people. The same people, as well as others, the same unfulfilled spirits in a destructive form, are still trying to create that time.

You might ask, why am I bringing in the National Socialist Party, the Nazi party? Why indeed? After all, they are not the only individuals who have ever done destructive and cruel things. However, in recent times they were one of the most advanced. They had certain machines, and they were able toward the end to travel through time. And since they had an agenda, they sent some of their people on a vehicle into the future to anchor a specific time line, to anchor the thousand-year reich in the future in which they would do it their way. Since they lost the war, you could say, "So what? They're in some future that we are not going to go into." On the one hand, you're most likely right. But what about that other possibility? I said "most likely," not "absolutely."

What about those people who went into the future? What are they doing? What did they do? Well, they established a future on a planet, Earth, what you sometimes call a probable planet, and they carried out their plan to create the beings they chose to create. On the one hand you could say, Well, if they didn't interrupt anybody's life or they didn't destroy anything, what's the harm? Being perhaps magnanimous, you might say that. But in point of fact, they came to a planet, albeit a probable planet from your Earth time line. It's not a real planet, but to the people who are living there, it's real. And they carried out their activities. Not the way they did in World War II, because the vehicle they were moving on was what you would call a flying disk they managed to obtain through long and nefarious negotiations with individuals associated with the secret government, who were just really getting started then. And they made a deal. The shadow government said, "If you go into the future and anchor the future that we want, we will give you a machine that will be able to accomplish that exact future, and all you have to do is push a button here, push a button there, you don't have to go to all the trouble" (from their point of view, nice words for war and the monstrous actions of World War II) "of eliminating people." They like to talk like that in a sanitized way so they don't have to feel anything. "And if you go to this future and create that race of beings you wish to create and get rid of all the others, we'll give you a vehicle, the weapons systems and the means to do it. But you must know this," they said to the crew before they went, "the people in this time" (meaning World War II) "are going to lose the war and you're going to be stranded there and you will have to live on the ship. You will not be able to walk around on the planet. Maybe you can have a few years on the planet. The moment you get out of the ship and go onto the surface of the planet, you will age the same way you age now. And since you must last at least a thousand years, you're going to have to spend most of your time on that ship." A few zealots volunteered and said, okay, we'll do it.

Right now as I speak, in that alternative future, that flag is flying and whole races of people have been eliminated by the push of a button. I'm not trying to scare you, I'm not trying to frighten you, I am challenging you to rise beyond the inner conflicts that you have, and I'll say more on that later. So here they are, anchored in this future, trying to create a malevolent future and not even realizing that the shadow government intends to double-cross them anyway. The shadow government says, "Well, let's send these fools" (and that would be their way of talking, not mine) "into the future to do our dirty work for us. And then anytime we want, we can travel into the future, eliminate them just like that, and use the planet for whatever we wish." The shadow government has the capability of traveling through different times. They do it for financial reasons. Maybe they mined the Earth or some other planet to the maximum to get the most out of it. Then what? Well, they struck upon the idea that they could go to that planet in some other probable time and mine it again. So this negative future, as you would call it, is in a dotted line, is something that someone is trying to create.

The Shadow Government Is Formed of the Shadow Side of Mother Earth

You might say, but what about now? That's the problem, you see. Now is the problem. Because they have had inadvertent, unintentional help to create a negative present from the most unlikely source! And when I tell you, you will say, "Come on now, Zoosh, Mother Earth would never help the shadow government because she is a loving being, a spiritual master, a material master. Why would she help negative forces?" Well, she's not. But Mother Earth is now releasing all negative energy. You might say she's releasing her shadow side, but she's also releasing the negative energy that human beings have left here from millions of years of struggle, strife and disappointment. She doesn't have to release the joy you left here, because that's your pleasure. The shadow government, being able to travel through time and consult with their teachers, have known that this was going to happen, and so they are utilizing that. Mother Earth is releasing this negative energy. Some of it's in the form of spirits; they are coming up to the surface. The lightbeings who take them to the light and cleanse them and transform them and get them to the point where they can evolve and go on through the veils can only take so many. But they are flooding the surface.

That is why you have had so many strange phenomena lately. How many people have been hearing knocking or odd sounds at night and so on? These are spirit phenomena, most of them. Granted, some of it is associated with sonic testing. Your government, as well as the shadow government, is experimenting with sonic weapons that can move space. This is actually a precursor to your government's ability to move through time. They don't know that yet, but they'll know it soon enough. Sonic weapons actually do form a foundation for a time machine. So some of those phenomena are caused by simple experimentation in sonics. But most of the sounds — rattling at the door, unexpected knocks and bangs, a sudden feeling of somebody moving you — are all spirit phenomena. Now, some of it's good, because even though Mother Earth is releasing all these negative energies, letting them go, choosing to move to a higher dimension herself, she also in the process is releasing some good energy. The Light is pushing up and out, pushing that which is unhappy, disappointed and so on up to the surface. It's coming up so fast that there's a lot of excess.

Now, first homework lesson: You are made up physically of Mother Earth. Yes, you are ensouled with your immortal personality from Creator. But your body is made of Mother Earth. You might have noticed lately that some of you are feeling nervous. Anybody feeling nervous? Lots of people are feeling kind of nervous and shaky. They are looking around and saying, “What’s happening? Here I am doing what I always do, calm and nothing happening, nobody’s bugging me too much, no more than usual — and I’m nervous.” It is this exact energy that Mother Earth uses to push her light up and out and push out the negative energy. You, being in the physical vessel made up of Mother Earth’s body, can best serve yourselves as well as Mother Earth and the immortal Creator by doing the same. But you must go beyond a mental visualization. In a mental visualization, you see something happening, you try to create the effects through thought and will, and that’s useful, but you have to do more. I’m going to ask you to do something. I want you to do all of that.

Light Exercise

Picture the light inside of your body. Start out with gold light; transforming with the gold light is healing. Then switch it to white light, and while you are doing that, see the white light radiating out from your body, pushing out all of the darker energies, yours or stuff that just happened to become attached to you.

During the time you are doing this, try to maintain a feeling of the kind of happiness that would cause you to move. It is your natural state, physically, spiritually, to be loving beings here. You are here on Earth now to learn something, so you are not always loving. But you have to go beyond love here: I need to have you go to joy. If you can’t get joyous when you are doing this because you’re unhappy or life is difficult or whatever, then at least try to move around. Make some motions. If you are sitting down, rock back and forth in the chair. If you are lying down, move your arms back and forth. Make some motion, because physicality is not only transformative, but it has the capacity to alter space, time and manifestation.

All physical manifestation happens on this planet because your immortal souls are in the vessel of a physical manifesting material master, Mother Earth. Mother Earth knows that motion has everything to do with material mastery, and that is why she is always in motion. You might say, “Zoosh, her rock is not in motion.” You may not be able to see it move, aside from earthquakes and so on, but at other dimensions, I assure you it is living, it is breathing, it is in motion. You just don’t see it moving at this dimension because it is moving too slowly for you to perceive it. But at the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth dimensions, it’s moving like crazy.

So it is important for you to begin emulating Mother Earth. You are here to learn from Mother Earth. So this is your first homework assignment for tonight. Picture the gold light. Let it heal you, let it go into your body, let it transform you. Picture the white light and let it move out as if there were a light bulb inside you. And move and try to have a feeling of joy. If you can't do that, then at least move. If you want to and if you can, get up, move around, dance, jump up and down, whatever you wish. It will help you personally. It will sustain the motion that Mother Earth is doing to create, release and move to the higher-dimensional self, and it will help your fellow beings.

Consider the animals. Consider how they move. Sometimes, especially these days, they move suddenly. A sudden physical motion by you will immediately transform a certain amount of energy. If you feel good, it will transform it more. If you are radiating this energy, it will do the best. So that's your first homework. Now onward.

Cynicism Feeds the Negative: Deny Cynicism

There are people, as I said, who want to create dark times for you. What form does that take? For starters, they will, if they have the capacity (and the shadow government does), create circumstances within your society that will disrupt, that will corrupt, and that will generally create a malevolent disposition in people. Now you could say, on the one hand, that it is all being done. All of the things that are driving you crazy are being done to do that, but some of these things are simply happening. And the theme is that, "Well, so what if we put a chemical that might be harmful to some people in this food? So what if the pulses that come through the television set might be harmful to all people to some degree? They can take it."

So you might say, on the one hand, it is greed. And there is simply a large element of that. But think about it: If you wish to create a dark time, a destructive time, what better way than to convince the citizens of the world (the shadow government is not nationalistic) to be cynical, to expect the worst. When you expect the worst, something actually energetic happens, something physical, in a sense. Something that sensitive people can perceive, something that healers try to help you to transform, something that you must begin to transform for yourself. In the beginning you form a dark shield like a dark cloud, but like armor around your heart. Since your heart is the center of your being, since your heart is constantly in motion (oh yes, you're breathing), it radiates, and it radiates through that veil of cynicism.

My friends, you cannot afford to be cynical. You can be unhappy, that's going to happen. You can go through the full range of emotions, but you cannot afford to expect the worst. You can have moments when you expect the worst. But you can't look at a group of people, even if it's politicians and lawyers (no offense), and expect the worst from them. You cannot afford the “luxury” of expecting the worst from them. Certainly you can kid around, you can make jokes. But if you say that they (whoever “they” are) are evil, you’re going to have a problem.

I’m going to take this one level further. What if I told you that you cannot even afford to be cynical about the shadow government? That’s right. You can’t afford cynicism in any way, shape or form because it feeds that negative future. So for starters, I’m going to encourage you to keep your eyes open, to keep your perceptions clear and to notice if you are expecting the worst. How do you know if you are expecting the worst? Maybe you think that you are a fairly upbeat person. You know you’re expecting the worst when something negative happens and it’s like, so what else is new? That’s cynicism.

Now, I recognize that you may not be able to do anything about something negative happening. It might happen on the other side of the world, it might happen totally out of your range. I’m not expecting you to run in between people and break them up if they’re fighting, okay? What I am saying is, don’t expect it! The expectation of an event, even if it is something that is small, can literally change the future. Example: There’s going to be a parade, so people expect to have a good time. They expect to bring their families. They expect to enjoy themselves. They expect the weather to be decent because it’s been decent. If enough people expect it to rain, it will rain. So I’m going to tell you that you need to start exerting your manifesting power. Begin with that light exercise. There will be more. I’ll give you more exercises. I’m going to put the pressure on you. Why not? You put the pressure on yourself every day. I’ll just put it on, too. I’m going to give you more exercises.

What Will Become of the Shadow Government?

What about the shadow government? What will happen to them should you be successful and as living beings move through the veil to the fourth dimension? There’s no real physical motion; you’re in that motion right now to do that. But you can’t possibly do that without testing yourself, because the only people right now who can move through dimensions without technological means are people who are fully realized beings. Now, a lot of ETs, oh, they can move through dimensions, but they use technology. So I’d like to say, so what? That’s nice, but so what? That’s not what you’re doing here. It is your intention to do what takes place during the passage of the immortal soul from the body through the veil to the next life, to the afterlife, while you are alive, everybody. This is not about ascension per se; ascension is something that is an individual force that people are intending to do to pull the planet up.

Something worth doing, but that's not what I'm going to talk about today. This is something that you are all doing.

What will happen to the people of the shadow government? When I say "all," does that include the people of the shadow government? Yes. It is hard to conceive, is it not? One likes to think that evil people, the bad guys, are evil through and through. And yet they contain immortal souls also. Does that suggest that evil is natural? No, it is not. It is concentrated here. It exists. It is primarily allowed by the Creator — that's how it's gotten out of hand. But it is prolonged by your acceptance and expectancy that evil things will happen.

In the old days, many of the religions used to campaign with their people, all the time, every day, to move beyond evil, to see evil as the enemy. Nowadays, some of these modern preachers are singling out people and saying the people are the enemy, this people and this people do that. We've got to get back to that old time religion a little bit. I'm not saying that evil is the enemy, but it is a step.

You must understand that the Creator has manifested you and all that you can see also. Since the Creator has manifested all you can see and feel, the Creator has allowed evil. But where did it come from? It sure didn't fall out of the sky, because that's the Creator's sky. No. The buck stops with Creator, and Creator knows it. You are the children of the Creator, are fully realized beings in training, are spiritual masters, are material masters, are teaching masters in training. It is your job to be able to find a place for evil by transforming every last speck in a way that it will want to be transformed. That is your job because you are the children of the Creator, and every parent wants his children to be better. In this case Creator needs you to be better and needs to birth you as a soul chain to do it.

I'm not going to talk so much about that tonight, because I've talked about it before. But it is simply this: What happens to the shadow government when you move through the veil? They must transform also. They are here as representatives of evil, though they would say they are here from a political perspective or a material perspective. But they are here; they volunteered just like you to come to these times. You might say, "Well, Zoosh, sure, they volunteered to come to these times. They came to these times to corrupt, to control, to destroy, to manipulate." And I have to say, all right, nevertheless they volunteered to come to these times to be destroyed themselves, from their perspective.

How do you get people to do that? How can it be possible that an entire wave of individuals will manifest themselves in a destructive manner, knowing that the entire purpose for their being is to be destroyed, from their point of view? There is only one way you can get people to come and do that, and that is that you must, as the Creator did, build in a nucleus of self-destruction in everyone who inhabits the bodies. That's why everyone here in this room, everyone who has ever manifested on this planet, every human being on Earth who's ever lived here, has had a nucleus of self-destruction within them. That's created a lot of problems, hasn't it?

And yet, not only are you visited with the immortal Light, not only are you visited with the strands from all your teachers of enlightenment, but you are also visited with that which you must transform and live with. You cannot possibly transform evil as an outsider. Angels can come, and they have. I can assure you, they have; this has been tried that way. And they can bathe the planet, or wherever they find evil, in love, pure love, and it does transform temporarily. Evil outside the context of a human being — or anything, for that matter — can be transformed temporarily (a thousand years, fifteen hundred years or so is temporary) by just loving it. But if you do not transform its self-destructiveness, evil's tendency in its pure state will be to destroy everything that exists and when it has nothing else to destroy it will destroy itself. So its destiny is self-destruction.

How can you raise up to the next dimension and transform the shadow government on your own? By becoming living, fully realized beings. Yes, you become living material masters, spiritual masters, teaching masters. But what else do you become? You become masters in the ability to transform elemental energy. Now we get to the heart of it. Elemental energy is the stuff of creation. I'm not talking about electricity, though it can feel like that sometimes. I'm not talking about magnetism, for that is more associated with love. I am talking about the actual matter that is Creator.

How many of you have wanted to kiss Creator, be loved by Creator? Creator is made up of elemental energy. That's why Creator is hard to describe. In order to move even to the fourth dimension (and there are a lot of dimensions that are beyond that), you must be able to embrace the worst aspects of yourself. You can't just go out and save the others. If you were just to go out and save the others you'd be coming from the outside, just like the angelic kingdom. You can't do it, it doesn't work, it doesn't hold. No, it has to be something you transform within yourself, to give you motivation. You must become elemental energy.

Now, how on earth does a human being become elemental energy? We're going to get right down to it tonight, not going to pull any punches. A human being, in order to become elemental energy, begins by actually concentrating on a point (a yogic exercise): you put a spot on the wall and stare at it for a long time. Eventually you see things moving and so on. If you haven't done that, try it. You will see things moving. Total concentration necessarily causes you to be in the world of living motion. The world of living motion is as close as you can become to elemental energy. The Creator is always in motion. Yes, the Creator allows stillness, but only as an illusion. There is no stillness. After all, you can hold yourself as still as you want, but your body is doing all kinds of stuff. Here is your exercise.

Elemental Energy Experience

To borrow from the yogis, put some spot on the wall. Just have a light-colored wall, hang something from it and focus on it totally. Make it something that isn't interesting, like a picture frame with nothing in it. Turn the picture around, anything you want. This is not just about seeing auric fields. I want you to focus on something with such total focus that you can see it moving. Have you ever been in a room that had one of these sprayed on ceilings and it has lots of texture and so on? If you have one stare at those ceilings. It is a lot easier with something with texture. You can stare at tree bark to do it too, but there has to be a lot of sunlight on it.

When you can begin to see it moving, don't question it. It's true that when you blink your eyes it will come back into its "normal" focus. I'm not telling you to prop your eyes open, but try to maintain the focus of seeing it in motion. You will not only see the living auric field, but you will see something like veins. When you see auric fields, you will see some radiations, but there will also be points of light or veins of light. Have you ever noticed that? When you see those veins of light, or concentrated veins of energy, that is elemental energy.

I know I'm trying to get you to do something that isn't easy, but not only are there people in this room willing to try it, but there are people who will read this who might also do it. When you see that elemental energy, I want you to focus on it. Some people see that energy by softening their focuses. Some of you will look at it to see it. Some of you will look to the side to see it. But as long as it's at least in your peripheral vision, I want you to move into it. Now, how are you going to do that? What you do is focus between your body, your eyes, and what you are seeing. In other words, you shorten the focal length, to use an optical term, between your eyes and what you are seeing.

Who is "Connected" to the Secret Government?

Are the skinheads, the neo-Nazis, the KKK and all that are in this country part of the secret government?

No. You must understand that forces that you do not agree with, who have political agendas and who are destructive and self-destructive and so on are simply encouraged, you might say nurtured, by the secret government. How would the secret government encourage something like that? They would corrupt forces known to be working toward something worthwhile, even though much of it is destructive. They might corrupt government agencies. They might encourage, through the motions of money, the media to focus on violence. They might encourage people to be greedy. They might support, nurture and allow all forms of corruption. But, no: Forces that you do not agree with that are self-destructive and destructive to others, such as neo-Nazis and so on, are not connected with the secret government.

The secret government, the shadow government, is a surprisingly small group of people in decision-making capacities. Even if we were to call it management capacities in the corporate image, it's still a pretty small group of people. They may have forces of their own, but most of these forces either occupy underground bases or move freely amongst you in very small numbers. After all, they wish to perpetuate an undying breed, as it were, meaning they want to pass on their philosophy. So they're not going to spread their direct connections to people who will be targets. They will try to influence them, but that is about it.

Is there any connection between the shadow government or the secret government and an organization that used to be in the news a great deal in the late seventies called the Trilateral Commission?

Good question. I'd have to say that there is some connection. I would not wish to say, however, that none of the people that you know that sit on that commission are shadow government people. For one thing, the reason the shadow government is so effective is that nobody knows who they are. They are not going to take any public position in any way, shape or form. The reason they've hung around this long is that they are secret. Therefore there was no direct representative on the Trilateral Commission.

However, certain prevailing attitudes — not ideas, but attitudes — that the secret government likes to support were encouraged, through means which I can't reveal without putting certain people in jeopardy, and I can't do that. The attitudes that were created, supported and nurtured were essentially that some people must make decisions for the betterment of the future of humankind, and if others have to suffer, that is the price we pay to achieve our goals.

You might say, "But Zoosh, many people have these attitudes." Yet, a commission like the Trilateral Commission doesn't rule anything but is essentially a point man, as the military might say — someone who is visible, who sees, but is, more importantly, seen, being designed to draw attention. This is not to say that people who sit on that commission do not do so in good faith and don't have individual lives and so on. Yet, I will simply say that some of their agenda is considered fine by the shadow government; equally, some of their agenda is not considered fine. But the shadow government's primary purpose is to influence and bring about their goals in the future by any means available. Not just by any means necessary; that's not broad enough — by any means available. So I'll have to say that the connection is indirect.

Temporal Displacement Experiments on Earth

Zoosh, you said earlier that the temporal displacement experiment in Nazi Germany was successful. Were parallel experiments by the Allies, particularly the Americans and Scandinavians, equally successful or not?

Parallel experiments in those times?

Yes, in those times and now.

I know what you're talking about. You have to understand that those experiments achieved some success, meaning that the intentions of the experiments were achieved in part. I don't wish to make it sound as if that's necessarily good. After all, when you're in a struggle for your very life and way of being and you feel you are on the right side, you are going to do whatever it takes to achieve it. At least half of what went on in World War II is still a secret to most people. Kind of hard to believe, you know; most of that stuff hasn't been declassified yet. I'd have to say that their experiments were about half as successful as the experiments of the Nazis. But at a terrible price. You must remember that when people are desperate and they are using tools of science (which, as I have discussed on many occasions, does not yet have a benevolent god), it is not only easy to make mistakes, but it is very easy to be blind to your mistakes. So I will say that the experiments you refer to were partially successful. A lot of lives were lost and disrupted.

Can you say what that experiment was?

I will let you mention it so we don't talk about everything and I don't wish to reveal some things. What are you referring to specifically? I know what I'm referring to.

Lichtenstrasse.

I will elaborate for the purpose of the people — I almost said the initiates, how about that?

Experiments in electromagnetism and temporal displacement, time travel, of moving physical entities from one temporal location to another, both on a temporal line and geographically at the same time. If you take a body and move it in time, you are also moving it geographically.

Thank you. This is exactly what I was referring to. These experiments in time, as they have been called, created a lot of disruption regardless of their intention. At that same time, scientists were striving to create the atomic bomb, and everything that they were doing was based on more, bigger, better — essentially that idea. But if you are amplifying something and the thing you are amplifying is basically impure to begin with (meaning anything from a thought to an element), you’re going to amplify everything. So these specific experiments in time focused a beam and moved people from point to point, but it was too broad a beam. It caused many people who were not even near the point of transmission to be moved. So a lot of people were lost, and some of the people doing the experiment did not even know this happened, though it was discovered in time. But there were those blinders: “Well, some people have to suffer so we can have more, bigger, better, so we can win.” So it’s hard for me to say that it was okay because they were striving toward a better cause. It did not achieve the cause they were striving for, and to be perfectly honest, I feel it might have been better not done. I feel the cost was too great. Also, it left a hole in time — not just one, but many. There are many, many, many spirits here now trying to repair these holes in time. The more these experiments go on, the more problem it becomes. It’s really a topic for another night, but we really ought to talk about that. Anything else?

The focusing exercise that you want us to do reminds me of the pictures we see now in the stores. They’re like stereographic, about basically the same thing except that energy. Are you aware of what I’m talking about?

Yes, I am aware of what you are talking about: no, it isn’t the same thing. But I can see where it would seem similar.

Transformation Requires Noninterference

You mentioned that the shadow government are shadow government because no one knows who they are. Since you’re not from here, do you know who they are?

Yes, but I am constrained from naming names because in my position, I cannot do something that will bring down destruction on someone. I can do something to encourage you to transform, but I can’t say, “Look, it’s her. Look, it’s him. This is their name, this is where they live, this is how you can reach them, this is their phone number, this is where they work.” After all, if you’re going to blend in and be unnoticed, you have to blend in. If I did this, people would surely kill them. So I would definitely be an accessory: I would be interfering, you understand? I can't do that.

If they were killed, someone would just step in to take their place, wouldn't they?

Worse. Suppose I said, "Oh, here's all the names," and listed off the names. "And here's where all the bases are, how to get to them and how to destroy them. Here's how to destroy the whole business." If there were enough people willing to sacrifice their lives, it could be done, through destructive means. Then what? There would be a short period of time when everything would be better. But then you'd have to start all over from the beginning, because the purpose is not the moment to moment; it is the larger picture — transformation on the spiritual, mental, emotional, physical, instinctual, energetic, eternal levels. I don't want to mess with that.

If the shadow government can time-travel and do all those things, wouldn't they know that they were threatened? Wouldn't they have that capacity to be aware of danger?

You have to understand something about time travel, especially when done in a machine: You can travel in time from the point in which you are residing, but also to variations of what you can imagine would be. But they are limited by their imagination. They might even have a computer that can imagine more scenarios, but who programs the computer?

But didn't you say the secret government can do it without technology?

I did not say that. They are not fully realized beings, so they are limited, fortunately.

I'm glad I asked the question because it felt like you said that they were fully realized beings, and that if . . .

. . . if they were fully realized beings they wouldn't be shadow government?

Well, you said they volunteered.

Yes.

For their jobs.

Yes. Does that make them fully realized beings? No. You volunteered for your job. Are you a fully realized being?

Heavens, no.

That's the beginning of wisdom.

The Extent of the Secret Government's Control

If the secret government controls everything on Earth, why would they be upset by ETs making themselves publicly known?

They do not control everything on Earth. That is their goal, that is their desire. They do not. There are other forces to counterbalance them — I will answer your question that way. They are not in control; they want to be in control. That's why they are attempting to create a destructive future using the pawns, as I mentioned before — the Nazi volunteers from the past. The SS had these soldiers that were staunch followers. They had to be soldiers, to be military; they couldn't be just terrorists — a fine point, but one I'll make for the sake of curiosity.

No, they're not in charge, so various events do affect them. If ETs came down and landed on the proverbial White House lawn, that would affect them. But most ETs know that that would also affect you. Especially if they were particularly benevolent and grand looking (which some of them are), it would be very hard for many people not to perceive them as the Messiah. So then we would go through a whole Messiah thing all over again. It didn't work before. The original intention of the Messiah that came before didn't work; it wasn't achieved, but it was a worthy try.

Were the members of the shadow government that you say volunteered to do this born on this planet, were they brought in from another planet, are they soul transplants, walk-ins or what?

Born on this planet. Card-carrying Earth people.

Every one of them?

Every one of them. But I'm talking about the people in decision-making capacity. I am not talking about their pawns, the people that they manipulate. There are some people that work with them that were not born on this planet. But the people in decision-making capacity fall under the heading of what the shadow government would perhaps refer to themselves as: a form of order. A disciplined order, yes, but an order in which the job is passed down to one child. Not always a male, by the way, but usually. These people will usually have families of at least three or four children, and pass it on to one, usually the one that is the most strong, the one that is the most easily drawn into a cause, the one who can be manipulated. There is always the angelic child, and it isn't that one. So, yes, they are card-carrying Earth people.

Are they advanced enough to arrange their own incarnations and their own lines so that they are born consciously, perhaps as their grandchildren?

Not all of them, but some of those who use powers of magic and are not benevolent do have this ability. If they are going to visit themselves in a future life they will necessarily be usurping, by the very idea (and even more, the doing), the soul that was going to inhabit that body. So it would be negative sorcery. Yes, some of them can do it, but not all of them. If they could all do that, you'd really be in trouble. There are only a few of them that can do that, and they are very careful not to pass it amongst their rank and file. After all, if you're dealing with a lot of negative people who get angry all the time and who are impatient . . . has anybody in this room been impatient? No, I doubt it! If you are dealing with that, you don't want too many people to have that level of power.

When did this group get organized or bring themselves together?

Good question. They began many years ago. They did not really have a great deal of influence that could be noticed until (and this is complicated) around a little before or a little after World War I. But since then they have been stridently creating a negative past and a negative future, so it's kind of hard to say when they came in. It depends on the time line. So I'd have to say, from their time-line perspective, they've been here for about ten thousand years. The more they are able to establish that negative past time line, the more cynicism and negative energy is sustained within each and every one of you — and they plan ahead. But on another time line, what I'd like to call the benevolent time line, they have been influential only to a minor degree from about 1895 on. They really started being influential around World War I. And it's hard to pinpoint it because the timeline is changing so much now. I'm really talking about some things that might have happened, or could or may or will happen. I'm not trying to be vague, or even purposely vague, but it is important for you to realize how much in flux your time is right now. Anybody having difficulty with your memories? Part of the reason you're having that difficulty is because time is so much in flux right now, not only because of this battle and because of people doing time experiments (some of which have good intentions, I'll grant that), but because of your soul's yearning to be in that higher, more benevolent dimension. So you're like a rubber band being stretched in all directions. And it's tough, it's tough.

Happy Exercise

Now, I'd like you to have one last exercise. I don't want you to feel overwhelmed by all these exercises, but if you're weren't initiates, I wouldn't give them to you. I'd like you to do something. It's not elaborate, it's not complicated. I'd like you to do it as often as you can. When you're feeling depressed, feeling discouraged or anything like that, I'd like you to make an effort to rise above it and be as happy as you can. To choose happiness, to claim happiness. To claim cheerfulness in the face of perhaps well-deserved depression. By that I don't mean you deserve to be unhappy. You might say, "Zoosh, this happened, this happened, this happened. I've got a right to be unhappy." I'd also like you to have a right to be happy. To those people in this room or those who might read this, sometime this week, when you are feeling depressed, just say, "I'm going to be happy now." And try to maintain it for as long as you can. Notice how much better it makes you feel. You really are manifestors. Don't let anybody talk you out of that! You are manifestors, you are creating, you are involved in creation and you are becoming more conscious of it every moment.

Try the happiness exercise. It won't be easy right away, but once you get in the groove of it, it will at least be more pleasant. And on that upbeat note, for an otherwise dramatic evening, I'll say goodnight.
